TROUBLE IN STORE FOR REPUBLICAN MANAGERS

Defrauding the Federal Government by Illegal Use for Political Purposes of Franking Privileges.

Sending by Mail From Ogden Candidates' Cards and Copies of State, County and Local Tickets.

The Republican campaign managers of Ogden have been caught in the most daring and systematic scheme to defraud the federal government, and if the officers of the law do their duty a number of fine gentlemen who are anxious to get into office may serve a term in jail instead. They may regard themselves fortunate if they escape with heavy fines instead of imprisonment.

It is well known that the franking privilege given to congressmen to send out government documents of all kinds is abused in every campaign, and tons of campaign literature is sent out from Washington by the committees of both parties, but there is a limit to the campaign work that can be done in this way, and the Republicans who are running the local campaign in Ogden are likely to find this out to their cost.

For some time past the Republican committee of Weber county has been sending out in government official envelopes the cards of the local candidates, the list of all local Republican candidates and other matter of a similar nature. This stuff is being sent in government envelopes bearing the following frank: "J. W. Babcock, M. C., House of Representatives, U. S. Part of the Cong. Record, Free." Mr. Babcock is chairman of the Republican congressional committee.

Some forty of these envelopes were received in Ogden valley on Saturday last, most of them in Huntsville. Inside of each one of these envelopes were personal cards with the advice to "Vote for Alma D. Chambers for county treasurer." There were also copies of the Republican local ticket, state and county, and other Republican campaign literature, no part of which was part of the Congressional Record or in any other way official.

The cold logic of all this is that these Republican managers are systematically defrauding the United States mails by circulating their literature without postage in these franked envelopes. The penalty for the use of one of these government envelopes for private use is a fine of $200 for the first offense. Certainly the Ogden Republicans cannot plead ignorance, because school children know that the use of official envelopes for private use is a violation of a federal statute.

A number of the Republican workers at the headquarters in Ogden during the past week practically admitted that they had been engaged in mailing Republican literature in the franked envelopes of Congressman J. W. Babcock. They claimed, however, that the stuff that they mailed was extracts from the Congressional Record just as the envelopes stated.

But the people of Huntsville tell a different story from the workers at Republican headquarters. They state emphatically that almost every farmer in the neighborhood of Huntsville has received one of these envelopes within the last few days, and that each one of these envelopes contained the Republican literature described above, including copies of the state and county tickets and the private political cards of the candidates. There are a number of the best men in Huntsville who will make affidavit to the facts above stated.

THE COMMERCIAL SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

MAUDE ADAMS WINS METROPOLITAN TRIUMPH IN A MASCULINE ROLE

New York, Oct. 22.—A metropolitan audience saw Maude Adams in Rossetti's "L'Aiglon" at the Knickerbocker theatre for the first time tonight. Much interest has been manifested here, not only of this new effort of the author of "Cyrano," but in the radical departure Maude Adams was to make from her general line in the assumption of the character of the "Eaglet," a masculine role, which was originated by Sara Bernhardt.

COLORADO GAME WARDEN WANTS AGENT MYTON'S CONDUCT INVESTIGATED

(Special to The Herald.)
Denver, Oct. 22.—Game Warden Jay of Rio Blanco county writes Governor Thomas that he has proof enough of complicity between Indian Agent Myton and the United States game warden to warrant an investigation. Jay declares Major Myton must have known of the absence of the Indians, and that filled the Knickerbocker theatre tonight. The production was enthusiastically received. All in all, Miss Adams was a pronounced success. She was perhaps at her best in the opening act, where light comedy prevails and where situations full of wit, humor and satire abound. Though the great scene of the battle field of Wagner was undoubtedly more in Bernhardt's line, nevertheless the tragic is so proportioned in act 4 that the interest of the audience did not flag throughout.

In the closing scene, the deathbed of the Duke of Reichstadt, Miss Adams' acting, though good, was largely conventional. The company was evenly balanced and the production was well handled.

THREE CISCO ROBBERS ARE CAUGHT IN COLORADO BY A SHERIFF AND POSSE

(Special to The Herald.)
Grand Junction, Colo., Oct. 22.—Sheriff Charles S. Wallis and Detective T. A. Ketchum made a capture late yesterday afternoon about ten miles from Delta of the three men wanted on a charge of holding up the train on the Rio Grande Western railroad.

The trio passed through this city at an early hour Saturday morning, and the officers here learning of it, followed them until Sunday afternoon, when they came upon them just as they were preparing to move on.

The sheriff's posse ordered the robbers to get up and they were brought to this city and will be taken to Cisco in the morning. The gang had names John and Wren Hatch and Dave T. Oliver.

CHAIRMAN JONES SURE OF NEW YORK; CALIFORNIA LIKELY TO GO FOR BRYAN

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee said today: "I do not believe there is any doubt that Mr. Bryan will carry New York. I believe our chances for carrying Ohio are better than the Republicans. I regard Illinois as an exceedingly doubtful state. Telegrams from the chairman of the Democratic state committee state we are going to carry California. Advice from that state while ago were somewhat doubtful as to the result. Mayor Phelan of San Francisco says there is no doubt about the state. One of the causes of this change of sentiment in California is the decision of Judge Estes on the Chinese exclusion act, in which he held that a Chinaman at any port in the United States could go to any other port, and therefore a Chinaman in Hawaii could visit any city in any part of the United States, thus practically throwing the door open to the free entry of the Chinaman in this country. I have no doubt of the election of Mr. Bryan."

BANK ROBBERS SECURE AND WALK AWAY WITH $3,000 AT LA GRANDE, OREGON

La Grande, Ore., Oct. 22.—The First National bank at Union was blown open last night between 2 and 3 o'clock. Nitro glycerine was applied to the door of the vault. The shock blew open the doors and broken particles passed through the front of the building. The robbers then appeared to have attempted to pry open the safe, but fled on the approach of citizens who sounded the fire alarm.

No arrests were made, though the men were seen walking away. The loss is about $3,000.

Leader of Maniacs Captured.
Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The all-night search for the seven maniacs who escaped last night from the Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane has resulted in the capture of the leader, a notorious criminal named Patrick Googhegan.

Fifty Killed by Explosion.
London, Oct. 22.—According to the Daily Express, fifty persons were killed and many others terribly scalded by a boiler explosion on board the steamer Euphrates, running between Tomsk and Barnaul.

COUNTY TREASURER ADVANCES MONEY TO CITY TO MEET BOND INTEREST.

Had it not been for City Treasurer Morris and County Treasurer Lynch, both Democratic officials, the city might have defaulted an interest payment of $20,000 due Nov. 1. It was necessary to raise the money yesterday in order that Auditor Reiser might draw the warrant for it today and send the draft to New York, where the interest is payable on the date named.

Had the city treasurer been unable to effect an arrangement with Mr. Lynch it would have been necessary to either seek a further favor from the banks that are now carrying the city's overdraft of nearly $260,000 or let the interest payment go to pot. It is not altogether certain that the money could have been secured in bank. The moneyed institutions are now bearing about all the city's burdens they desire, and it would have been entirely within their province to decline.

The interest referred to is the semi-annual installment on the bonded debt of $800,000 created in May, 1892. The overdraft is already up to the limit, and Treasurer Morris concluded that the only way to cut the knot would be to secure the cash from County Treasurer Lynch if possible. He, therefore, approached that official and made known the difficulty of the city.

Treasurer Lynch reminded the city treasurer that only on Saturday he had paid over $8,380.27, all that was coming to Salt Lake City from taxes up to Oct. 1, and that he was not required to pay over any more until after Nov. 1. But Treasurer Morris pleaded so hard that the county treasurer went over his books to find how much he could spare. Only a little more than $11,000 had been taken in for city taxes since Oct. 1, and the county treasurer consented to pay this much over to the relief of the distressed municipality.

Eleven thousand dollars would not enable the city to pay its bond interest, and Treasurer Morris made another effort to convince the tax collector that nothing short of $20,000 would prevent the municipality from being up against the hardest kind of proposition.

Seeing the desperation of the situation, Treasurer Lynch took another reach and a chance by drawing Treasurer Morris a check for the desired sum, which is about $9,000 more than is coming to the city at this date for taxes.

With the money from the county treasurer in sight, City Auditor Reiser will draw a warrant today for the bond interest. Drafts will be remitted without delay and thus the near approach to the city's default in paying one of its most pressing obligations will be averted.

EX-SECRETARY JOHN SHERMAN DIES AT LAST

Snubbing by McKinley and Death of His Wife Hasten End of Distinguished Statesman.

Shelved to Aid Mark Hanna's Ambition He Closes a Disappointed Career in Retirement.

Washington, Oct. 22.—John Sherman, former representative in the house for a long term, a senator for years and twice a member of the cabinet, died at his residence in this city at 6:45 o'clock this morning in the seventy-eighth year of his age. His death had been expected for some days and loving friends gave him their unremitting care and attention to the end.

The immediate cause of death was described as brain exhaustion incident to extreme weakness due to old age and to several attacks of sickness from which he had suffered for the past year and a half. Since Saturday afternoon Mr. Sherman had been most of the time unconscious, rallying partially at intervals, when slight nourishment was given him. Yesterday afternoon evidences of the approaching end were manifest and he failed to regain consciousness after 3 o'clock, passing away peacefully just after dawn broke. About 1 o'clock this morning he rallied somewhat from the stupor and turned himself over in bed, but after that he gradually sank until the end came.

Several days ago, realizing the critical condition of Mr. Sherman, the members of the household and relatives here sent telegrams to a large number of the family connections throughout the country notifying them of his extreme illness and some were able to reach here before he died. Among those at the bedside when the end came were Mr. and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilcox of Cincinnati, Mrs. William K. Otis of New York City, P. Tecumseh Sherman, a son of the late General Sherman, Charles M. Sherman of Chicago, Miss Lizzie Sherman, Mrs. James McCallum, the adopted daughter, who has been Mr. Sherman's constant attendant, and her husband, General and Mrs. Miles, the latter a niece of Secretary Sherman, were at the house the greater portion of the day and evening, but left for their home shortly after midnight. They were summoned when it was apparent that the end was near and reached the house a few minutes before the venerable statesman had passed away.

Dies a Millionaire.
Secretary Sherman's death occurred in the handsome home on K street, which he had erected eight years ago. Some weeks ago the secretary decided this valuable property to Mrs. McCallum. The secretary was a large holder of real estate in this city. Conservative estimates of his wealth place it at around $1,000,000. It is known that Mr. Sherman left a will, but no information as to its contents or even when it would be probated will be obtainable until after the funeral.

The funeral will be held at the Sherman residence early Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith, rector of St. John's church, officiating. The body will be taken to Mansfield, O., over the Pennsylvania railroad, and services will be held in Mansfield Thursday, President McKinley attending.

Mr. Sherman had not been in robust health for considerably over a year. In March, 1899, while on a pleasure trip to the French and Spanish West Indies in company with a relative, Frank Wilcox, he suffered a severe attack of pneumonia, which almost proved fatal. The ship on which they were traveling touched at Santiago, from which place reports came to the United States that the well known statesman had died. He rallied, however, and the family accepted the offer of the United States government to bring him back to the United States on the cruiser Chicago, then in the vicinity of Santiago, and he was safely landed at his home in this city. Here he gained strength and was strong enough by summer time to visit his home in Ohio. His remarkable vitality brought him through a relapse which he suffered during the heated term, and by August he had regained much of his strength and seemed to be in good spirits. He spent last winter at his home in this city, enjoying fairly good health, even going out to social affairs and attending the theatres with members of his family.

Wife's Death a Severe Blow.
The family left here early in the summer for the old homestead at Mansfield, O. They were there but a short time when Mrs. Sherman, whose health had been very frail, died. This was a severe blow to the secretary from whom she had never fully recovered. He remained at Mansfield until the middle of September when he returned to Washington. He was broken in health and spirits, but for a time he was able to move about in the open air and to take short rides around the city. For the past three weeks or more, however, he had been confined to his bed, his general debility being aggravated by an irritating bronchial cough that hastened the end.

Great Service in Senate.
Among his former associates in the senate his demise will be sorely felt without reference to party. In this field of activity his services had been particularly able and successful. He had served so long that experience added to his natural talents. He was a recognized authority on all great public questions, past and present, and he had at his finger's end all the facts, figures, etc., to give complete elucidation to a subject. He was regarded as a guide, rather than a party leader.

VILE ABUSE BY ROOSEVELT

Candidate Finds Hostile Crowds in Own State.

CALLS BRYAN MEN
HOODLUMS AND HOBOES

Turns Angry on Men Who Ask Questions.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Governor Roosevelt finished the first day of his flying campaign through the state in Kingston tonight after traveling eighty-nine miles and making eight speeches, the longest being at Newburgh and Kingston.

Spectators interrupted the speaker with questions, in every instance receiving a reply. At West Nyack a man close to the car cried and shouted, "Hurrah for Bryan!" and Mr. Roosevelt replied, "Why don't you hurrah for Algeed and Aldrich?" The cheering ceased. Another called, "What about the ice trust?" and he answered, "This election will be decided by the patriots and men of courage in the country, who outnumber the shysters of your type. The ice trust will be attended to in a proper and legal way."

A man in the crowd at Newburgh said in a low tone of voice, "Why did you call Democrats cowards and dishonest?" Roosevelt heard him and flung quickly this characteristic reply: "It's a lie. I never said such a thing. It is Democrats, good Democrats who swell our majority."

Toward the end of his remarks at Newburgh the governor was interrupted a number of times by shouts of "What is the matter with Bryan?" "Down with trusts," Governor Roosevelt remarked, "That gentleman has all the symptoms of a Bryanite," which was greeted with laughter and applause. Then, walking over to one side of the platform and speaking directly towards the point from which the shouts arose, the governor said:

"You look like one of those men who work exclusively with their mouths. What do you mean to do with the cotton bale trust of Mr. Jones or the iron trust of Mr. Croker? (Cries of "What is the matter with Bryan? He's all right.") That is an argument of wind. You are afraid to hear the truth. You interrupt this meeting because you are a hoodlum and nothing else. You represent the disorderly class that is naturally against us. You represent those people who not only object to prosperity, but who do not get any of it, because you won't work. (Applause.) Now, go back to your fellow hobo and learn after this (more yelling, and the man evidently turned to depart) that you stand against the flag. You have not got a particle of patriotism in you. I am glad you are going away. I think you have learned enough here after not to monkey with the buzz-saw. (Long continued applause.) Now, gentlemen, in the temporary absence of the local police I have driven off that disturber of the meeting." (Applause.)

Declares "Bryanism" Base.
At West Nyack Governor Roosevelt said:

"You have been asked by our opponents at different times what were the paramount issues in this campaign. I can tell you. The paramount issue for the whole nation is, once for all, to stamp out Bryanism. And with it in state goes the less important question of the stamping out of Crokerism."

"Bryanism means different things in different places, but fundamentally it means an appeal to the lowest passions, to those qualities that in the last analysis are most dangerous to the welfare of the people."

At Kingston Governor Roosevelt, in his speeches, took up some of Mr. Bryan's statements in the state, and early the one in which Mr. Bryan said if elected to office he would crush out every private monopoly. He said:

"Why, that would mean crushing out every business and the doing away with a man's revenue on a patent. Mr. Bryan could not do such a thing, and he is dishonest when he says he would."

Meets Embarrassing Remarks.
As the governor climbed through a window and appeared on the temporary platform in front of the Y. M. C. A., he was greeted with a mingling of cheers and hisses and hurrahs for Bryan and hurrahs for Roosevelt. The governor assured those assembled that it was a pleasure to see a fine turnout. He stated that he hoped good would be done even to those upon whom the light had not yet shone. They greeted him with new varieties of "Hurrah for Bryan!" "Three cheers for Bryan!"

The governor had gone on without noticing the interruptions, but as it continued, he finally said:

"There are some whom we cannot reach. Any man who thinks noise is a substitute for thought cannot be appealed to (applause, mingled with shouts of "Hurrah for Bryan") and naturally feels like going the way. (Applause.) I make an appeal to every man, to every brave and honest man (A voice: "Who got shot in the back?") no stronger appeal than that those who fear to hear the truth. (A voice: "Who was four miles away?") When men will not listen to arguments, you can guarantee that they represent a pretty poor party. (Applause.) When men are afraid to hear the truth they are certain not to be good citizens. I appeal to every honest and decent citizen to vote against the party that encourages that kind of folly, rebuke cowardism of that stamp. They show how utterly unsafe it would be to trust any kind of government in the hands of people of that sort. (Applause.) They are giving you an admirable object lesson on Bryanism. (Cries of "What's the matter with you, dy? He's all right.") I would tell you, better holler now, for they won't holler after election. They have added my amusement tonight." (Laughter.)

End Their Lives Together.
Corry, Pa., Oct. 22.—Harry Bettis and Daisy Bydenburg were found dead in Corry park this morning. It is supposed to have been a case of suicide. Both were shot, and Bettis' hand held a revolver with two chambers empty.
